- Space organization: We will need a large, unobstructed space, such as the courtyard.

- Game description and development:
  - We will first divide the entire group into two equal groups.

- We will also divide the field into two halves, each team will be placed in one half and one player from each team will be placed in the "cemetery", that is, the area behind the opposing team.
- The aim of the game is to hit the ball with someone from the opposing team, to eliminate it and pass it to your graveyard ... but beware! you who will go to the cemetery of your team.
- The cemetery players, however, also continue to play, being able from the new position to throw the ball to the opponents as well.
- The game ends when a team runs out of players, that is, everyone is in the graveyard.
- Evaluation: This activity is very popular with children, because it is very dynamic and allows them to burn energy and release tension.

Anyway, at the end of the game we will ask them if they had a good time, if they got very tired, etc ....

- Adaptations:

Depending on the level of the players, we can make it easier by saying, for example, that to go to the cemetery you have to touch the ball 3 times.

Or, to make it more difficult and dynamic, we can introduce more than one ball into the game.
